Regis House is a unique service, providing medium to long term residential step down to fostering placements for children from the age of 5 up to 18 years.

Children accommodated at the home may also present with sensory impairment, physical disabilities and sexualised behaviours or equally, with complex health care needs.

As we offer care for children with a diverse range of needs, we undergo a careful matching process. This means that when young people stay, they are with children with similar needs and abilities to keep young people safe and to maximise the opportunities to build friendships and relationships

We will also provide a robust planning and matching process working in partnership with Progress Fostering service, and any placing Local authority and their in house fostering service, to enable the most appropriate foster family.

The aim is to work with children and young people to support them in all aspects of their care, education and health, working towards agreed targets which are set to focus the personal development of children in areas which present barriers.

A lot of emphasis is put on the children having fun and enjoying life to the maximum, with activities planned around their health, educational and individual needs. We pride ourselves in maintaining relationships and working closely with new foster carers/parents, and welcome ideas and involvement from all key professionals.

The staff team will support potential foster carers and parents to develop a sound understanding as to each aspect of the child's individual needs.

3. Arrangements for enabling children to enjoy and achieve and how we promote participation in cultural, recreational and sporting activity

At Regis House we are committed to ensuring that all children actively participate in social and leisure activities, as part of our service. These must be accessible and culturally appropriate, meeting individual needs.

All Young people at the home have access to a wide range of local resources within their community. These include youth clubs, discos, visiting restaurants, shopping, parks, theme parks, swimming, cinema, pantomimes, football clubs, horse riding, bowling and any individual skill or talent that the young person shows an interest in.

Trips and activities are planned with each child individually through 1-1 key worker sessions and our group meetings allowing for personal preference. At Regis House, we have strong links with local groups, leisure centres and youth centres that complement our approach to structured multi agency working, and young people are encouraged and supported to get involved with activities and local organisations to give them a sense of the local community and what it means to them.

Regis House has access to its own transport, however, where young people have complex physical disabilities and require specialist transport, families will be asked to bring in the child's own vehicle, so that they can get out and about safely. The young people are also encouraged to access public transport with the support of staff, and to take walks in the local area.

All the young people are supported and encouraged to attend school and we strive to work very closely with the young person's school to ensure consistency, boundaries and good communication. We ask schools to share information with us of significance to their care or support.

The staff team take pride in supporting children and young people in events that either take place with local authorities or the school and staff will support parents and Foster carers where requested.

4. Our arrangements for supporting the cultural, linguistic and religious needs of children living at Regis House

Progress Care Solutions believe a young person's cultural and religious background is fundamental to their identity and so it is important that this is encouraged and maintained.

At Regis House we respect all religious denominations. Young people are encouraged to practice their religious beliefs. Staff will ensure appropriate arrangements are made, so that the young person has the opportunity to attend a place of worship or religious events if requested.

The home follows the cultural and religious rituals in preparation of food for young people as needed.

At Regis House the young people are encouraged to participate in cultural nights, birthday celebrations, and any other significant events that occur during the year, embracing the diversity that exists in society.

5. Our approach to consulting children about the quality of their care

The Management team of the home will agree with the young person and their families, objectives to be achieved during their stay as part of the placement plan agreement. This will be overseen by the Team Leader and monitored and reviewed by the Registered Manager.

Staff will hold regular 1:1 creative sessions with the young people so that their wishes and feelings can be heard and acted upon.

All placement plans are consulted on and young people are encouraged to attend and express their views.

Young people's 1-1 placement plan sessions are held on a regular basis with each individual, using communication aids that are individual to them, ensuring that they have a good understanding of what is being communicated. These 1-1 sessions are documented.

The placement plan sessions aim to empower all the young people, using social pedagogical theories and models so that they are able to, voice their opinion, make choices and address any issues that may affect them within the home. They are encouraged to discuss relationships and forward planning for their future. Our young people's thoughts are used to influence their life and well-being in the home environment.

The Residential Operations Manager, our independent Regulation 44 Visitor and our quality and compliance officer visit the home on a regular basis and meet with the young people to ensure all the young people are safe and provided with quality care whilst their wishes and feelings are being taken in to account and will communicate with parents, Foster carers and social workers to independently test the quality of care.

Staff support and advocate for the young people to express their wishes and views at Review meetings and other professional meetings held about their care. Staff support families to inform children and young people about the decisions which are made on their behalf.

To ensure their views are heard and acknowledged, our young people have access to a range of communication systems, which they are supported to use and access with staff support where necessary.

For young people with severe and profound learning difficulties, the staff will establish the young person's likes and dislikes through observation and discussion with families and other professionals involved, and advocate on their behalf, enabling them to achieve their full potential in life.

The use of Advocates and Independent Visitors for the young people are encouraged by our service.

At Regis House, we have a staff team that reflects the diversity within society. We expect our staff to uphold the company core values at all times, and to promote anti discriminatory practice.

We believe that the relationships formed with the young people, colleagues and other professionals should empower and promote equal opportunities for the young people we work with. We always strive to be child focused in all aspects of our care. The welfare of the young person is of primary importance, and the young person's views should be listened to.

We recognise that young people from different ethnic groups have particular care needs. We also recognise that each individual will have differing needs resulting from their disability. Some young people will require advice, assistance and support to look at issues surrounding their particular experiences and backgrounds. We see this as the responsibility of all staff.

A young person's sense of identity can become very fragile when separated from their parents, young people may struggle to retain a positive sense of their own cultural, racial and religious heritage. Regis House is committed to ensuring that all children in our home develops a clear sense of who they are, equipping them to tackle any discrimination they may encounter.

Promoting a young person's identity is an important part of the referral process when considering a placement for children in Regis House to ensure that we receive detailed and accurate information regarding the disability, sex, ethnicity, culture and religion of all young people being considered for placement at Regis House.

The principles of anti-oppressive practice and Equal Opportunities are a core component of our induction processes for all staff at Regis House.

Regis House promotes visual materials that celebrate diversity and promote cultural and religious awareness for all our children and their families.

At Regis House we encourage children to participate with meal choice and preparation which reflects their heritage or culture which can be a very positive way of demonstrating that their identity is valued within the home.

Regis House staff promote and encourage any hobbies, interests and talents a child may have.

Young people at Regis House can be provided with education and information regarding relationships during 1-1 sessions.

Progress Care Solutions are committed to ensuring that the voices of children and young people in any of its services are heard, and all young people will be encouraged to participate within the young people's forum led by young people and empowered and facilitated by staff advocates.

At Regis House young people's meetings are held, which are supported and documented by the team. Young people are encouraged to participate in this and where possible lead this meeting and choice of agenda to express their wishes on future activities and menus etc. Regis House encourage the young people where practicable to co facilitate group meetings, attend the children's voice forum and with support co facilitate these meetings.

The forum aims to empower all children so that they are able to voice their opinions, make choices and address any issues that may affect them within the home; they are encouraged to discuss relationships and forward planning for their future. Young people's thoughts are used to influence their life and well-being in the home environment.

with significant people and advocate on their behalf enabling them to achieve their full potential in life.

The use of advocates and independent visitors for the young people are encouraged by our service and the young people are made aware of how to contact their reviewing officer, children's rights services and OFSTED.

Regis House and the staff team are committed to upholding and implementing the United Nation's Convention on Children's rights and the principles surrounding it. Each young person is valued in their own right and treated with respect and dignity.

Children are made aware of their right to complain about any aspect of their care and how to do this through 1-1 sessions and group meetings. Staff from the home will support them to access the complaints procedure and complete this using their preferred method of communication.

Staff are aware of the company policy on whistle blowing and their responsibility to evoke this procedure to ensure the safeguarding of all children, young people and staff who access Regis House. Staff will ensure that all young people are aware of this procedure and are able to initiate this with the correct support if necessary.

Progress has detailed policies around safeguarding, bullying and missing children.

Safeguarding underpins all the work that we do with, children young people and young adults. And all staff will receive appropriate local authority safeguarding training within their probationary period.

All children must have in place individual/activity risk assessments prior to undertaking external trips etc. The Registered Manager of the home monitors this.

Safeguarding procedures form an integral part of the daily responsibilities of staff in respect of protecting children. All children and young people must feel safe and secure. Staff are required to report any disclosure or any form of abuse to the Registered Manager immediately.

Any form of allegation against a member of staff must be reported to the Registered Manager who is responsible for informing the appropriate authority for investigation.

Staff are required to report any allegation of abuse relating to the Manager to the child's placing authority and the Operations Manager, who is the Designated Safeguarding Officer, they will report the matter to the Local Authority Designated Officer and the Director of Operations

The Manager/Senior Manager will ensure information and support is made available to the staff concerned, should this be necessary.

All staff members are required to attend safeguarding training which is refreshed annually

Any staff member, whom an allegation is made against, may be suspended from duty pending further investigation. The Manager/Senior Manager will ensure information and support is available to the staff concerned in this event, communication will come via the HR department.

All staff must refer to the homes policy and procedures on bullying for their guidance.

Young people receive 1:1 meetings and attend group meetings on bullying, and where appropriate will sign an anti-bullying agreement. It is important that both the victim and the bully are both supported and behaviours are addressed appropriately without discrimination.

If a young person goes absent without permission, as outlined within their Individual Risk assessments, the Manager, parents and placing authority will be notified and the matter referred to the police immediately as this would raise concerns from the safety of the children due to the vulnerable nature of their disabilities. Local Police protocols are followed and when returned an independent welfare check is completed alongside the Police safe and well check.

Children's Behaviour

12. Our approach to surveillance and monitoring of children

Due to the nature of the children being looked after at Regis House it is, on occasions, necessary to use a monitor in the bedroom, at Regis House, this may be in the form acoustic monitoring however may be in the form of a visual monitor dependent on the child's needs, e.g. for epileptic or asthmatic children etc to safeguard from any potential health risks. The reasons for surveillance will be identified and recorded in the young person's placement plan and will be in agreement with placing authority and parents/carers where necessary, with consents being maintained.

13. Our approach to Behavioural support

Regis House has a clear behaviour support policy and procedure for supporting our young people's behavioural needs. There is a strong emphasis on positive attention from the staff demonstrating a caring interest and building strong positive relationships with the young people.

Positive reinforcement is used to influence individual behaviours; this can be by just recognising and praising positive actions through to the use of individually designed reward charts, and as a result sanctions are rarely used.

Progress Care Solutions train all staff in safe and positive behaviour support, which includes the use of safe holding procedures on the children and young people. We take a proactive stance on the management of behaviours and safe holding procedures are viewed as an extreme measure and only used as a last resort.

Staff will always consider the use of alternative behaviour support strategies based on the child's level of understanding, before resorting to the use of any form of physical contact. Any strategies used are evidenced in the appropriate professional documentation.

Progress Care Solutions utilises the skills of senior social workers to enhance their working practice and to develop the skills of the staff team. Regis House utilises the skills of a social pedagogical practitioner to embed the holistic approach of social pedagogy. This helps staff make sense of the often complex and enduring behaviours that children and young people display through experiences of neglect and other childhood traumas. If a child needs additional therapeutic requirements then the social worker is able to support this requirement.

Progress Care Solutions uses PRICE training for behaviour support & Physical Intervention which is BILD accredited. The Trainers have considerable expertise in the field and follow recognised best practice. Staff undergo a rigorous behaviour management training programme and require an assessment of competence in the use of the safe holding procedures. The course is certificated. This is followed-up with regular refreshers. The Trainers provide a consultation service as and when necessary.

Any placement of a child that may require the use of safe holding procedures must be discussed with the placing authority and parent/carer. The proposed procedures will be appropriate for the individual and outlined and agreed in the care plan. Staff will be required to undergo training in the use of these specific interventions. The use of all interventions will be recorded, monitored and regularly reviewed by the Manager.

Staff are encouraged to discuss the behaviour support strategies and ideas on enabling children to self-regulate as part of the care planning meetings, where ideas and opinions are shared and agreements made to adjustment to the plans for children's care. Parents and professionals are encouraged to actively participate in the care planning processes by attendance or feedback.

All staff are required to follow the homes policies and procedures for guidance and the Manager is responsible for ensuring all physical Interventions and any sanctions are clearly recorded and evaluated on their effectiveness.
